Collaboration and Digitalisation

– Breaking Silos in the Built Environment

In order to move the industry forward we need to overcome barriers to productivity, sustainability and efficiency that have long gotten in the way. Disciplines work without reference to each other, data is not persistent, and now we have a pandemic changing our workplaces themselves. Come hear from a panel of three industry leaders as they debate the issues – possible impacts, influences and outcomes – that will matter to all of us in the work environment of the future.

Join us in this panel discussion to look at the various aspects of Collaboration and Digitalisation of the Built Environment.
