The Challenges and Pitfalls of Managing Documents in Large Construction Disputes

Mr. Ho Yong Kin

Ms. Serena Lim

About

this

Webinar:

The law of construction is often not as complicated or as esoteric as the law in niche areas such as shipping and intellectual property. However, one distinguishing feature of construction litigation and arbitration is the volume of documents that are involved. Disputes relating to large construction projects often require counsel to pore over and organize thousands of pages of documents. Managing a construction dispute as counsel often involves superior organizational abilities which can be as important, if not more important, than actual knowledge of the construction law.

The speakers will share useful tips and experience on managing such disputes and will address questions from the audience.

Webinar

Programme:

Webinar participants will be able to watch and listen to (via computer audio, recommended for security reasons, or telephone line) the video presentation and Q&A discussion on their screens, as well as participate in the Q&A discussion by sending in their questions to the moderator via text using the built-in Q&A function.

About this Conference

As the construction industry (both in Singapore and the region) considers how it can return from the torment inflicted by the global pandemic, we explore the critical success factors for the industry as it navigates the new normal. In this light, what role does Sustainability play in the conversation? Is the industry sufficiently resilient to come back stronger and more efficient? What avenues for reimagining are there for the industry in light of disrupted supply chains and increasing cost pressures? Is reform overdue? How are we getting back to business?

Join us at our 3rd "Focus on Asia Conference" 2022 as we explore these issues affecting the construction industry from Project Inception and Design, Financing, through to Contract Implementation and more!

We are privileged to have Mr. Kelvin Wong, CEO of the Building and Construction Authority of Singapore, join us for our opening Keynote Session "In Conversation with The Building and Construction Authority of Singapore".

The Annual Conference will also host some of the foremost construction law practitioners, senior in-house counsel and industry experts to provide delegates a series of four sessions which focus on:

- Reimagining Finance - Sustainable Investment and Financing of Large-Scale Infrastructure
- Re-Engineering Project Conception - Implementation till Completion and Beyond
- Reforming The Energy Industry - A Debate on The Motion "This House Believes That Renewables are the Beating Heart of a Sustainable Future"

This year, as part of our 20th Anniversary Celebrations, we will hold our annual dinner after the Conference at the Grand Marquee at Hotel Fort Canning. 	09.35 – 11.05	“RETHINKING BUILDINGS – CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES OF TRANSITIONING TO NET ZERO” One of the few silver linings attributable to the pandemic is the renewed interest in ramping support for enhanced and sustainable infrastructure. For a built environment to be sustainable, it needs to be green and resilient in its usefulness and relevance. A smart and sustainable approach to building and design encompass many fronts - passive, active, biomimicry, biophilic designs, digital and the use of smart technology for monitoring. This panel celebrates the approaches of Smart and Sustainable Design, the strategies and methodologies employed, and the technologies used including platforms such as city management as a service. Panelists will provide insights by way of case studies such as the SJ Campus including the research and innovation that went into it. The panel discussion will deliberate on which should come first, passive, active or smart or all in together.

There is absolutely no debate that the time to transition is now. The path is brighter and clearer than it has ever been. Alternative Energy has become Essential Energy. The Incumbent Oil and Gas is done for and obsolete. Or is it? What are some of the challenges that may stymie or delay this Energy Transition? Does Oil and Gas still have a role to play in the years to come? And what does law have anything to do with this anyway?
