

SGBC SEMINAR

Priming for a Renewable Energy Future

Motivated by the increasing urgency among countries to meet their climate commitments, the Asia-Pacific region is accelerating the adoption of renewable energy. From driving innovative technologies to adopting new government policies, decarbonising the built environment entails an integrated approach to harness renewable energy.

This SGBC Seminar, supported by SGBC Member NS BlueScope Lysaght Singapore, will share critical insights for navigating and leveraging renewable energy developments for the sustainability of the built environment. Discover the latest trends and advancement in renewable energy adoption across the Asia Pacific with the Energy Studies Institute (ESI) from the National University of Singapore. Additionally, gain insights from NS BlueScope Lysaght Singapore on Solar-Ready Roofing
