CONSTRUCTION CONTRACT

2nd EDITION 2017 RED BOOK

The FIDIC Construction Contract 2nd Edition 2017 Red Book is the acknowledged international standard for project contracts and hence is accepted as the foundation and reference for construction and infrastructure projects involving international partnerships or financing.

This intensive and specialised training course offers in depth understanding and knowledge based on the Red Book to benefit professionals involved in construction and infrastructure projects with international stakeholders and financing. It is particularly suitable and relevant for professionals from government agencies, private sector employers, consulting engineering firms, contractors, quantity surveyors, architects, legal advisers, who are responsible for managing, consulting or advising on such projects.

Conducted by highly qualified FIDIC-certified trainers with extensive experience working on global projects, the course offers knowledge in contractual frameworks including preparation, negotiation and management of projects, allowing its participants hands-on knowledge that will help them confidently work with FIDIC contracts and related documents, whether they are representing employers, consultants, or contractors.

The two-day course is designed to provide participants with essential knowledge on the complex legal and practical aspects of international project delivery, including real-world examples and case studies to highlight best practices for using these contracts. With limited number of participants, the course ensures excellent opportunity for participants to interact and network among each other and with the trainers. By the end of the course, participants will have the tools and understanding necessary to navigate the intricacies of FIDIC contracts and ensure that their projects are managed efficiently and in compliance with international standards.
