

Dialogue Session Information

In May 2024, the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), which is responsible worldwide for setting technical standards, published new international standards under the Technical Committee ISO/TC 323, aimed at ensuring transition to circular economy.

The three new ISO standards are ISO 59004 (Vocabulary, principles and guidance for implementation), ISO 59010 (Guidance on the transition of business models and value networks), and ISO 59020 (Measuring and assessing circularity performance).

Under the Singapore Standardisation Programme, the Working Group (WG) on Circular economy would be adopting the three ISO standards as Singapore Standards. The draft standards would be available for public comments from 1 Nov 2024 to 2 Jan 2025. Click here to view.

This dialogue session aimed at gathering feedback from industry on the standards as well as seeking clarification, if any on its use.
