Topic Synopsis and Speaker's Bio

Construction Contracts – Risk Management and Contract Administration (Koong Len Sheng)

Construction contracts are the foundation of any building or infrastructure project, governing the relationships, rights, and remedies between all parties involved—from owners and contractors to subcontractors and suppliers. These contracts outline the obligations, expectations, and procedures that guide a project's execution, ensuring that all parties are held accountable for their roles and responsibilities. A well-drafted contract can mitigate disputes, safeguard against risks, and provide clear paths for resolving issues should they arise. As such, understanding the intricacies of these contracts is essential to successful project delivery.

In this session, we will cover best practices for reviewing construction contracts with a focus on managing risks and ensuring compliance with contractual requirements throughout the contract administration process. We will examine key areas of risk management, including the identification and mitigation of potential liabilities, such as managing insurance coverage, addressing defects, and handling liquidated damages for project delays. Additionally, we will explore critical aspects of contract administration, with a particular emphasis on understanding entitlements and the procedures for claiming them—such as extensions of time, additional payments, and retention sums. By the end of the session, participants will have a deeper understanding of how to effectively navigate construction contracts, reduce risk, and enforce contractual rights and obligations.

Koong Len Sheng is a partner in David Lim & Partners LLP. He is qualified to practise in Singapore and Malaysia. Topic Synopsis and Speaker's Bio

20 years of the SOP Act (Kishan Pillay)

The Building and Construction Industry Security of Payment Act ("SOP Act") came into operation in Singapore in 2005. Since then, it has played a critical role in the resolution of payment disputes in the building and construction industry in Singapore.

As 2025 marks the 20th anniversary of the SOP Act, it is timely to discuss the evolution of the SOP Act since its inception, and to revisit its key objectives and features. In this session, we will look back at significant developments in case law and legislative amendments concerning the SOP Act over the past two decades. The discussion will be beneficial for professionals in the industry who are keen to gain practical knowledge and a deeper understanding of the workings of the SOP Act.

Kishan Pillay is a Director of Breakpoint LLC. Kishan's main area of practice is in litigation and dispute resolution, with a focus on building and construction disputes. He counts among his clients developers, local and foreign contractors, and professional consultants, and has successfully represented his clients at all levels of the Singapore Courts, as well as in domestic and international arbitrations.

Kishan has particular experience in matters relating to the Building and Construction Industry Security of Payment Act, and is accredited as an Adjudicator by the Singapore Mediation Centre.
