From 9 to 11 July 2025, Singapore will host crucial conversations about our built environment's future at the Singapore-International Green Building Conference 2025.

What makes IGBC-SG 2025 unique is how it brings together fundamentally different - yet equally important - perspectives on green buildings and built environment sustainability. During the main Conference from 9 & 10 July 2025, hear from policymakers alongside developers and consultants who are implementing policies in real projects. Technology and solution providers will demonstrate practicality in decarbonisation efforts while academics will share research that could redefine how we approach built environment sustainability.

These diverse viewpoints will converge around the key themes of:

- Climate Resilience: Building for a Changing Climate
- Driving Change & Transforming Practices
- Beyond the Business Case
- Whole Life Decarbonisation
- Human-Centric Metrics for Green Buildings
- Reimagine, Retrofit, Renew
- Smart, Data-Driven & AI-Optimised Buildings
- Regenerative Design & Nature-Based Solutions

With speakers ranging from policymakers to hands-on practitioners and international experts, Delegates will gain the multifaceted understanding needed to drive meaningful change in the built environment.
