Can Organisations Keep Pace in the AI Race?

Artificial intelligence is transforming the built environment, reshaping everything from digital infrastructure and facility operations to workforce skills and leadership requirements.

As organisations accelerate AI adoption, success will depend on more than technology alone. The industry must be ready on two fronts: building the infrastructure to support AI and preparing people to thrive alongside it.

Join industry leaders at IBEW Conference 2026 as they explore what it takes to build a future-ready AI ecosystem for Tropical Asia.

The technology is ready, but is the workforce?

Plenary 3:

Are the People Ready for AI?

Thurs, 3 Sept | 09:30 - 10:30
Plenary Theatre, Level 3

Session Sponsor:

As AI becomes embedded across the built environment, organisations face challenges that extend beyond technical implementation. From closing skills gaps and overcoming resistance to change to building psychological safety and leadership capabilities, the human dimension will be critical to successful AI adoption.

Hear from leaders in industry, academia and organisational transformation as they discuss how businesses can move from training to true workforce transformation in an AI-enabled future.

Building an AI-ready future requires more than a workforce equipped with new skills. It also demands resilient, sustainable infrastructure capable of supporting AI at scale.

Breakout C.1

How AI Demand is Reshaping Data Centre Design in Tropical Asia

04 Sep | 14:30 - 15:00
Woh Hup Theatre Level 3

Session Sponsor:

While organisations prepare their workforce for AI, the digital infrastructure powering AI must also evolve.

As AI workloads drive unprecedented rack densities and energy demands, data centre operators face growing pressure to balance performance, cooling efficiency and sustainability. This session examines how industry leaders are rethinking data centre design to support the next wave of AI growth across Tropical Asia.
