Simply wearing hearing protection isn't always enough. Choosing the wrong protection, poor fitting and inconsistent use can all reduce its effectiveness, putting workers at risk of noise-induced hearing loss over time.

Explore our hearing protection resource to learn how to choose and use hearing protection correctly. Take the hearing quiz to test your knowledge and identify common hearing protection mistakes.

Foot injuries can have serious consequences, especially in workplaces where heavy objects may fall or roll onto workers' feet. Choosing the right safety footwear involves more than impact resistance. Proper fit, comfort and suitable protection all play a role in keeping workers safe.

Explore our foot protection resource to learn what to look for when selecting safety footwear. Take the Foot Safety Quiz to test your knowledge and discover where you can strengthen your understanding of foot safety.
